

Testing, Learning and Moving Forward

From development to validation and digital learning

The RE-WORK project has reached an important phase, moving from development to testing and validation, while also preparing new digital learning resources.

What we're working on now

As part of the project activities, all partner countries conducted national Evaluation Workshops to assess the quality, relevance, usability, and practical applicability of the RE-WORK Resource Kit. The workshops engaged VET professionals, trainers, educators, and other relevant stakeholders, ensuring that feedback reflected both pedagogical expertise and real-world practice.

The findings were consolidated in a Synopsis Report, which indicates that the Resource Kit was evaluated very positively across countries. At the same time, the workshops produced recommendations for further refinement, mainly related to accessibility, navigation, clarity of language, and practical guidance for trainers.

Developing e-learning content

Building on the Resource Kit, partners will develop six e-learning videos, each corresponding to one of the developed modules. These videos will translate the key concepts of the Resource Kit into accessible and engaging digital content.

Once ready, the videos will be uploaded to the project's YouTube channel, making them freely available to a wider audience and supporting self-paced learning.

Upcoming Final Conference and Transnational Project Meeting in the Netherlands

The next Transnational Project Meeting (TPM) will take place in the Netherlands, hosted by PROWORK, the project coordinator.

During the meeting, partners will:

- Review the outcomes of the evaluation workshops
- Discuss the development of the e-learning videos
- Align on next steps, quality assurance, and dissemination activities

This TPM will be a key moment to consolidate progress and plan the final project phase together.

Moreover, partners will attend the Final Conference organised and hosted by Prowork.

What's coming next

In the coming months, the project will focus on:

- Finalising the Resource Kit based on evaluation feedback
- Developing and publishing the six e-learning videos
- Continuing dissemination and engagement with relevant stakeholders

We look forward to sharing these results with you very soon
